

A european based community of engaged management scholars

Call for Papers
European Academy of Management (EURAM)
2018 Doctoral Colloquium

June 17-19, 2018
University of Iceland, Reykjavik, Iceland

Are you a second or higher year doctoral student?
Would you like to become part of the EURAM research community?
Do you want to engage with doctoral students from different parts of the world?
Do you want to meet the leading scholars in your field face-to-face?
Do you want to become the winner of the “EURAM 2018 Doctoral Colloquium Best Paper Award”?

Then we would like to invite you to the EURAM 2018 Doctoral Colloquium!

Exchange and expand

Exchange knowledge and expand your network and initiate dialogues with leading management scholars!

Experienced management scholars will share their knowledge about undertaking doctoral research and pursuing a career as an academic. Learning from those scholars and asking them all the questions you've always wanted to ask is a great opportunity. Don't miss this opportunity to learn about the tacit knowledge underlying a PhD process and to get useful insights on how to complete a PhD in a successful way.

Collaborate

Collaborate with your peers and participant mentors!

The largest part of the colloquium is dedicated to the discussion of your papers in small groups – each supervised by an experienced senior researcher, many of them global thought leaders in their field. The aim is not that you shall give a “traditional” paper presentation, but to briefly outline your research and from that engage in intensive interactive sessions aiming at giving you advice and feedback for the particular questions you have. We will circulate the papers of each group member in advance to make sure that each one can read the papers of the others before meeting.

Engage

Identify your way of joining the EURAM community of researchers!

You will get useful hints on how to become part of the EURAM research community. We will invite you to become part of, for instance, the European Early Career Community (EECC) and the EURAM Strategic Interest Groups (SIGs). The SIGs are the “heart and soul” of EURAM and SIG representatives will join in – not only with their scientific expertise – but also with information on the scientific development of EURAM that may be of great value for conference newcomers.

Express

Express your talent and win the EURAM 2018 Doctoral Colloquium Best Paper Award!

Our scientific committee will select the winners of the EURAM 2018 Doctoral Colloquium Best Paper Award among all accepted submissions (1st price is 1000 Euro; 2nd price is 500 Euro; 3rd price is 300 Euro). This is an excellent opportunity to advance in your academic career!

Submission Process

Submit your application at latest 24 January 2018, 2:00pm, Belgian Time. The link to the IT platform for submissions will be announced on 1 December 2017.

Note that the IT platform for submissions is open from November 17, 2017 to January 24, 2018, 2:00pm, Belgian Time.

In order to submit a formally valid application, provide the following four documents in pdf-format:

1. Your CV which includes a picture
2. A letter of motivation written on the stationery paper officially used by your university. You must end your letter of motivation with the following statement: "In the case of acceptance for the EURAM 2018 Doctoral Colloquium, I have the funding and will definitely participate in the Doctoral Colloquium" (note that this is a legally binding statement) (Max 2 pages).
3. A letter of recommendation written on the stationery paper officially used by your university and signed by your main supervisor (including all contact info) (Max 2 pages).
4. A single authored text (= written by yourself only) on maximum 25 pages named EURAM_DC_2018_[YOUR LAST NAME]_[YOUR FIRST NAME]_TEXT-TYPE_4x. The text should neither be published nor submitted for publication in any form. The text cannot in any version or variant also be submitted to EURAM 2018 Main Conference.¹

Dependent on the type of dissertation you are doing and on how far gone you are, you shall provide one of these three text-types:

- a. A research proposal regardless of what kind of dissertation you are doing (mainly if you are not that far gone in your PhD process yet).
- b. A summary of your conventional monograph dissertation.

¹ Further detail instructions: 1) The entire paper (title page, abstract, main text, figures, tables, references, etc.) must be in ONE document. 2) The maximum length of the paper is 25 pages (including all tables, appendices and references). 3) Use Times New Roman 12-pitch font, 1,5 space, and 1-inch (2.5 cm) margin all around. 4) Number all of the pages. 5) Check that all your submitted documents print correctly and ensure that the files are virus-free. 6) Only submissions in English done via the EURAM 2018 on-line website shall be considered for acceptance. 7) If experiencing technical problems when submitting, contact EURAM asap. 8) NO CHANGES in your text and accompanying documents can occur between submission deadline and registration/payment. 9) IF accepted and WHEN your Mentor starts to organise your group, an UPDATED version of THE VERY SAME MAIN TEXT YOU HAVE BEEN ACCEPTED UPON can be circulated within your group.

- c. A summary of each paper done/planned in your compilation dissertation + a summary of your compilation dissertation as a whole.

Regardless if you choose text-type 4a, 4b or 4c, your text must include the following elements and sections:

- What text-type you are submitting (either 4a, 4b or 4c, see above)
- Particular questions/issues that you are encountering on which you would like to get feedback/ advice at the Doctoral Colloquium.
- Short abstract (max. 300 words)
- Up to 4 keywords
- The following outline/headlines of your main text:
 - Introduction (including research gap and associated research questions)
 - Relevance of your dissertation; theoretically, empirically, practically
 - Theoretical framework/Key literature you are building on
 - Methodological approach/es and method/s used
 - Empirical findings (if you write a research proposal, please present expected/intended empirical findings)
 - Discussion and conclusions (not applicable for text-type 4a)
 - (Potential) contributions of your study (theoretical, methodological, practical)
 - References
- Choose one topic area from the list below that best matches the positioning of your PhD dissertation (these topic areas are identical with the SIGs of EURAM, except for the last one 'General Management', which is no SIG in EURAM):
 - Business for Society
 - Corporate Governance
 - Entrepreneurship
 - Family Business Research
 - Gender, Race and Diversity in Organisations
 - Innovation
 - International Management
 - Managing Sport
 - Organisational Behaviour
 - Project Organising
 - Public Management and Non-Profit Management
 - Research Methods and Research Practice
 - Strategic Management
 - General Management (If you work in an area not covered by any of the 13 EURAM SIGs above).

Why Apply?

Alex Alterskye, University of Lincoln, UK

EURAM is a forward thinking, innovative and most of all supportive group of scholars... being part of the EURAM DC has helped me think about my research in new ways and it has really boosted my confidence.

Sarah Wittman, INSEAD, France

I found the EURAM Doctoral Colloquium a great forum to get feedback on my work, learn from others, and make new friends. The feedback that I received both from my mentor and from the other students in my group was relevant and helpful, and has given me some great ideas on ways to move forward with finishing my dissertation and with publishing my work.

The organization of the event was exceptional, the sessions very interesting, and the speakers engaging. I've already recommended the event to people in several schools with whom I have contact, and hopefully will be successful in encouraging more students from a diversity of programs to attend.

Maria Albertina Barreiro Rodrigues, Universidade Europeia, Portugal

To participate on the EURAM Doctoral Colloquium is a great opportunity to meet other researchers on the same stage that we are and share expectations, knowledge and experiences.

On the other hand, the EURAM Doctoral Colloquium gives us the opportunity to hear several fabulous academics about their perspective of how to develop a good and sustainable research while we get feedback on our work.

The EURAM Doctoral Colloquium really represents a good opportunity to think on our approach and to define our research.

Rachel von Kauffman, Hebrew University of Jerusalem, Israel

I'd like to thank the Doctoral Colloquium organizers for an outstanding work. The Doctoral Colloquium program was very enriching, and contributed significantly for my growth both as an academic and as a practitioner. It widened my professional horizons and contributed to my awareness and involvement in the management scholar community EURAM Doctoral Colloquium

With warm wishes,
EURAM 2018 Doctoral Colloquium Team
